Summary of CAERDA 2003 Annual Conference at Chicago

With Mainland China, Taiwan, and the U.S. moving forward with their educational reforms, CAERDA focused their 2003 annual conference on issues educators and policymakers will confront in the wake of these changes. On April 21, 2003, conference participants engaged in sessions that discussed many aspects of educational reform and quality in these three countries.

An invigorating panel discussion on education reform in Taiwan, Mainland China, and the U.S. set the tone for the conference. Panel discussants include William Lan (Texas Tech University), Jing Lin (University of Maryland), Duc-Le To (U. S. Department of Education), and Wu-Tien Wu (National Taiwan Normal University). This was followed by seven paper sessions (or 22 individual presentations) on issues relating to instructional design and learning strategies; research methods and measurements; school structure, college enrollment, and affirmative action; Asian students' performance, issues, and learning methods; cultural diversity, gender, and equity; and teacher preparation, induction, and retention.

The coordination of the 2003 annual conference was made especially challenging because of SARS concerns and restrictions on travels from Mainland China, Taiwan, Singapore, and Hong Kong. CAERDA appreciates the efforts of 2003 conference program chair, Jie-Qi Chen (Erikson Institute) for her excellent management of the challenges posed by the uncertain travel plans of numerous presenters. CAERDA also acknowledges all participants, including institutional hosts in Chicago, for their support of the 2003 Conference.

CAERDA Dinner a Highlight of the Chicago Conference

Nearly 130 CAERDA members and guests enjoyed dinner on April 21st as the Association celebrated another year in promoting excellence in educational research among Chinese researchers and students. CAERDA President, Duc-Le To, Vice-President, Jie-Qi Chen, and Founder, Samuel Peng encouraged members to participate in education research and development and to use CAERDA as a way of branching their network of associates.

CAERDA Welcomes One New Board Member and Four New Advisors

The CAERDA annual Board meeting on April 20, 2003, elected Fang Wu (Howard University) to serve as a Board member, replacing Jie-Qi Chen (Erikson Institute) who has completed her service as a Board member. In addition, Richard A. Cornell (University of Central Florida), Allen Huang (University of Northern Colorado), Shwu-Yong L. Huang (National Taiwan University), and Samuel Peng (National Tsing Hua University) accepted their nominations as CAERDA advisors.

With these changes, CAERDA Officers and Board of Directors are consisted of:

President: Duc-Le To (U.S. Department of Education), Vice-President: Steve Chi-Yin Yuen (University of Southern Mississippi), Secretary: Jianping Shen (Western Michigan University), and Treasurer: Ji-Mei Chang (San Jose State University). Other board members include: Shui-Chin Chang (TECO in Los Angeles), Lungching Chiao (U.S.

Department of Education), Chi-en Hwang (Cedarville University), Aubrey Wang (Educational Testing Service), and Fang Wu (Howard University).

News from CAERDA Members

- Shwu-Yong (Susan) L. Huang, a newly appointed CAERDA Advisor has left the National Tsing Hua University and started to teach, as a professor at the National Taiwan University in Taipei, Taiwan. Here is her new contact information: E-mail address: syliou@ccms.ntu.edu.tw. Office phone number: 011-886-2-3366-5711, and fax number: 011-886-2-3366-5712.
- Samuel Peng, Editor-In-Chief for the New Waves Journal and CAERDA Advisor has retired from NCES, the U.S. Department of Education and become a university professor in Taiwan. Currently, he is setting up the Center for Research on Higher Education in the National Tsing Hua University. With major funding, he also started a project of the Higher Education Database in Taiwan which has the following components: institutional data, freshmen, junior, and graduate surveys, faculty survey, and a longitudinal study that begins with the freshmen cohort. This project, he believe, will enable researchers to address many issues in higher education, and monitor changes in the long run. It is hoped that some other Asian countries will collect similar data for comparative studies. For detail, contact Samuel Peng at 011-866-3-574-2406 or by e-mail: Peng\_Samuel@hotmail.com.
